The American Society of Interior Designers (ASID) North Chapter is the premier organization for local interior designers looking to cultivate better relationships and opportunities within the world of interior design. Each year, ASID recognizes its members' design achievements from the past year in multiple categories for residential, commercial and product interior design. ASID is proud to have recognized the following First Place winners and one Best in Show winner for the Commercial category of interior design. The winners were honored at the 2011 ASID Design Excellence Awards Gala, held in August at the Montelucia Resort & Spa in Paradise Valley. DESIGNER STATEMENT:

Housed in a century-old building in the heart of a newly revitalized downtown, the studio and offices of this high-end residential interior design firm have a very urban, loft-like ambience. The original brick walls are complemented by reclaimed wood flooring, "found" doors, industrial furnishings and unique lighting. The overall intent of the design was to create a space that is conducive to creativity and inspiration while honoring the setting. The light, bright palette serves as a canvas for creating new designs and serves as a neutral backdrop for design presentations. Antique and industrial furnishings add character and house the many resource materials needed for the firm's projects.
